REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: applicant recites a sign holder for a merchandise shelf having a horizontally extending shelf surface for holding merchandise and the shelf also has a downwardly extending lip member. A sign holder is mounted to the lip member of the shelf and is comprised of a mounting element and a sign receiving element. The mounting element is comprised of a planar mounting panel and a planar reverted element. Both the mounting element and the reverted element have a front and rear face and an upper and lower edge. The upper edge of the reverted element is connected to the upper edge of the mounting panel by a U-shaped bight portion. The rear face of the reverted element extends in a spaced relation to the front face of the mounting panel and the height of the mounting panel between the upper and lower edges of the panel is multiple times larger than the height of the reverted element between the upper and lower edges of the reverted element. The sign receiving element is comprised of a transparent body panel having a front face, rear face and upper and lower spaced edges, a flap extends behind the rear face from the upper and lower spaced portion and is parallel to the rear face. The flaps are comprised of front and rear faces and a terminal free edge portion and a bight portion connecting the flap to the body panel. The front face of the flaps and the rear face of the body panel define a channel for receiving a sign.

The prior art made of reference, taken singularly or in combination, does not adequately disclose the features recited in the instant claims. Specifically the prior art of Lowry et al does not specifically show the arrangement and size relation of various
